Filmography

Ulrike C. Tscharre
Actress

Ulrike C. Tscharre gained her first acting experience as a 16-year old at various theaters in southern German. She accompanied her career with an education at the Academy for the Performing Arts in Ulm. Already during her studies, she worked together with young directors from the Baden-Wurttemberg Film Academy in Ludwigsburg. A number of production companies took notice of her and cast her in a wide variety of film formats before she attained national attention with Sathyan Ramesh's film `Beautiful Women'.

Through her nuanced performance in that feature film, directing legend Dominik Graf discovered the special talent of the actress. Hence began a prizewinning collaboration that continues to the present day. In a series of productions with him - including 'The Rich Corpses', 'In Face of the Crime', and 'Emergency Number 110 - He Should be Dead', Ulrike C. Tscharre has established herself as one of the most sought-after protagonists in German speaking film, able to portray openness as well as opaqueness at the same time. Renowned directors such as Emily Atef ('Don't Worry'), Isabel Kleefeld ('Better Than You', 'Help! Wedding!'), Matti Geschonneck ('A Commissioner Returns'), Rainer Kaufmann ('Mother Quits'), Sathyan Ramesh, ('Beautiful Women', 'The Last Moment'), Sebastian Ko ('We Monsters'), Stefan Krohmer ('The Confirmation'), Stephan Wagner ('Ransom', 'Murder in Eberswalde') and Viviane Andereggen ('Character Assassination') continue to use the special talent of her open allure and powerful presence. For her own extraordinary series 'Special Investigator', she sought out the collaboration with directors who are always interested in following different narrative paths, such as Connie Walther, Dominik Graf and Stephan Lacant.

With her fine, subtle depictions of human motivation, Ulrike C. Tscharre moves effortlessly between genres. Her performance timing is spirited and changes easily though always believably between melancholy, eroticism, humor and desire. In her own particular way, the actress uses reduction to create characters that deeply move audiences and the press. Der Spiegel writes: 'Without you really noticing it at first, Ulrike C. Tscharre can move her characters to an emotional center, where she can be vulnerable and abusive at the same time.'

Ulrike C. Tscharre works as an actress in the German speaking world and lives in Berlin.
